

TO A FRIEND

Sonia Weitz

These words are not nearly fit to convey
The heartfelt sorrow we share today.
We, the fortunate to have crossed his lane
Though briefly, the image will always sustain
A great human being, whom we all could face
Whenever in need of wisdom and grace.
A rare man, who freely gave his mind;
A real friend with true love, courageous and kind.

These words are indeed too weak to express
Our loss. Yet, as we grieve – we humbly bless
Yet as we mourn – we gratefully cherish
A memory, that will never perish!

He left you a wealth of reasons to live...
And when you accept, and learn to forgive
God's will. The anguish, the pain or despair
That so many of us are chosen to bear
Shall kindle your faith and new strength flow
To help you keep his greatness aglow...

So hold your head high! For you were his wife;
You are very special, to have share his life.
